

The New Jersey do not call law is great as is. As a widow, it eliminates most of the unwanted calls, most of whom still request to speak with my late husband, even though the telephone and everything else has been changed to my name. The hurt of someone asking to speak with my late husband is severe, especially when the caller liles and says they spoke with him recently.

I repeat, please leave the New Jersey law alone.